

Intuitive and Coherent Access to all functions of your AAC device

The key to all functions of your communication device

Easy access to your device

Sono Key is a user interface for Tobii Communicator that provides streamlined, comprehensive and easy access to your communication device.

It is designed to get literate users up and running quickly and provides complete access to all of the functionality inside your computer and communication device. The intuitive, yet powerful design allows for a wide range of input methods, giving anyone the chance to use modern information technology to enrich their lives.

Control speech and other functions

With Sono Key you can create your own speech-synthesized messages as well as store and print documents. You can also control other key computer functions like calendars, e-mail, chat, SMS, media players, photo libraries and Windows controls.

Intuitive and coherent access to all functions of your communication device. Ideal for all communication needs of literate people.

Customizable in many ways

Personalizing input methods is accomplished in a few seconds and you can even choose from several different keyboard layouts including, abc, QWERTY and keyboards optimized for eye control.

Sono Key offers a variety of selection methods including, direct selection by click or touch, selection with adjusted dwell time, scanning and even eye control.

All settings can easily be adjusted with no programming required.
